Police save woman from fire

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

A Romulus woman's rescuers may not have arrived on a reindeer drawn sleigh, but two city policemen gave her the greatest Christmas gift she could ask for in this holiday season-her life.

Rich Balzer (a probationary policeman), reported they found Dorothy Mae Jorden, 47, hanging out the window of her 35931 Vinewood home about 9:15 p.m. last Wednesday as smoke and flames surrounded

The officers said Jorden was about five to six feet from the ground and crying for help when they arrived.

They found the frightened woman's leg was caught between her bed's headboard and the wall. They worked her leg free and then lowered her out the window to the ground, The officers, Cliff West and where they wrapped her blan-

> Jorden was placed in a police car and taken to Annapolis Hospital, where she was treated for burns and smoke inhalation.

Two other occupants, Kimilitria Vashawnta Jorden, 19, and an eight- month-old child, Evan, were able to esape from the burning home without the policemen's help. The officers however then entered the smoke-filled house in search of any other potential victims, but found no one else inside.

Police said the fire was started by flames on candles that ignited kitchen cabinets. The home sustained fire, smoke and water damage.

The three occupants all suffered minor burns and smoke

Airport noise confab

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

An indepth meeting on Detroit Metro Airport noise mitigation and other common issues will be conducted soon by members of the Romulus City Council, Metro Airport and Federal Aviation Administration.

Romulus city council members expressed the feeling that the meeting has been called by Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara because "we have sent a letter to the FAA saying we were not totally pleased with the county's efforts on sound proofing area homes and businesses.'

Romulus City Clerk Linda Choate revealed in a letter to the council that a tour of the airport's noise mitigation house on Pennsylvania road would also occur the day of the proposed meeting.

Choate said the city needs to send McNamara three possible meeting dates that the county could choose from for such a seminar.

McNamara (in a letter to Choate) chided Wayne County District 11 Commissioner Bruce Patterson for giving western Wayne County residents "erroneous information" on the airport noise mitigation

The county executive said Patterson's efforts are simply "to divide the county and your city by uttering information that he knows is not true."

In addition to McNamara's letter, the council also received a letter from airport noise mitigation czar Sean P. Brosnan stating that since getting FAA approval back in 1993 Metro Airport has spent over $6 million buying 54 residential homes in Romulus, $1.05 million on building noise berms and $277,505 on sound insulating Merriman Elementary School in Romulus.

Brosnan said the airport is scheduling another $5 million expenditure during 1997 to purchase homes and $2.5 million to sound insulate or purchase assure homes.

While most Romulus council members welcomed the planned seminar, many felt such a session would never have been called if the city had not recently informed the FAA about it displeasure over airport noise developments.

Councilwoman Mary Collins said the county's offer is the first since airport expansion began and she is eager to sit down with both the airport and FAA representatives.

Both Council members Jimmie Raspberry and Deborah Romak expressed hopes that some citizen representatives could be at the joint session.

Pitoniak slated to become new Taylor mayor

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

State Rep. Gregory Pitoniak, elected only last November to potentially his last term as a state legislator representing Romulus, will apparently step down from that position on Jan. 31, 1997 to assume the mayor's chair in his home town of Taylor.

Pitoniak, 42, first was elected as state representative for Taylor in 1988 and became also the Romulus representative in 1991 after reapportionment. Because of state term limit provisions, this would have been his last term.

The change in political seats is being caused by current Taylor Mayor Cameron Priebe's decision to accept Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's offer to become assistant county executive in charge of public services on Feb. 1.

Pitoniak endorsed by Priebe to become the new Taylor mayor needs to get at least four votes on the seven member Taylor City Council on Jan. 7. Pitoniak said upon talking to the council members he is assured of at least six votes and it possibly could be a unanimous vote.

Pitoniak's return to Taylor City Hall (he formerly served as city councilman) will cause potentially a wild scramble for his Taylor- Romulus seat, unless all the top political forces unite on one candidate.

On Feb. 1 or sometime in the near future Gov. John Engler will have to set a date for a special election for Pitoniak's two year seat. It was speculated that a current Romulus city official could safely seek the statewide post without losing his or her current Romulus job.

But if someone like Romulus City Council members (such as Randolph Gear or Deborah Romak, who have some name recognition in Taylor because of the deepwell issue) decide to enter the fray, they would need heavy financial support since about 70 percent of the district vote comes from

Rep. Gregory Pitoniak

Their success would also depend on a split in the Taylor vote for their local candidates. Pitoniak said as many as three candidates could enter the special election. The district is considered a safe Democratic

Two other potential Taylor candidates for the mayor's seat bowed out after hearing that Priebe had endorsed Pitoniak. They are Taylor City Council Chairman Frank Bacha and city Treasurer Wayne Avery. It is not known if either would seek Pitoniak's state representative position.

Ironically Avery is a former Romulus School Board member. That could add or detract from his effort to seek the state rep seat depending on how he is remembered by Romulus Priebe, 48, who has served as Taylor mayor since 1981, will get an approximate $24,000 raise by accepting the county job, where he will oversee about 1,700 employees. He will replace Russell Gro-nevelt, who is retiring.

Pitoniak said his salary will jump from $52,000 as state representative to the low $80,000s as Taylor mayor.

Pitoniak chuckled that if he is named mayor, he will be forced to seek election this November. "It will be my seventh election campaign in 10 years," he said.

Taylor's city races are nonpartisan, as are those in Ro-

Roman is official city newspaper

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Once again the Romulus Roman newpaper will assume the role of official newspaper for the city of Romulus starting Jan. 1, 1997.

City Clerk Linda Choate recommended that the annual newspaper contract be awarded to the Michigan Community Newspapers, the parent company of the Romulus Roman.

Choate revealed that the MCN advertising bid was $4.25, a quarter cheaper per column inch, than the Heritage Newspapers's bid.

The Romulus City Council unanimously (7-0) approved Choate's recommendation, following a motion by Councilman William Crova and support from Councilman Michael Prybyla.

The circulation of the Roman vastly supercedes the Heritage Newspapers, 4,150 to 605 The MCN also agreed as in the past to supply a full time reporter for Romulus, while the Heritage newspaper said it would supply a reporter "as needed."

The Heritage newspaper was the city's official newspaper during the year of 1996.

In other council action on Dec. 23, let bids for carpeting for the police department's dispatch room and for 137 chairs for the Romulus Public Library.

The approximate cost of the carpeting will be $1,100 and $14,000 for the library chairs, Mayor William Oakley said.

It also was revealed that the old library furniture would later be sold.

Also approved was the purchase of a backhoe for the Department of Public Works from the Calvert Sales Co. of Orion at a cost of $52,746.

Belleville man pleads guilty to bank robberies

Kenneth B. Colvard, 28, of 14. Belleville is facing up to life in prison after pleading guilty to two counts of bank robbery. The man admitted to robbing the Citizens Bank in Ypsilanti Township on Sept. 7, and a Great Lakes Bancorp branch in Ann Arbor on Sept.

During the pre-trial hearing before Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Kurtis Wilder, Colvard said he passed a note to tellers demanding money. During the trial, he said he did not have a gun, and no one was injured in either hold-up.

FBI agents, assisted by Ann Arbor police and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, arrested Colvard Sept. 19. He then confessed to two other robberies of Citizens Bank branches in Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township. Under a plea agreement with the prosecuter's office, he only pleaded guilty to two counts of bank robbery in exchange for no additional charges being brought against him.

Bank robbery carries a maximum penalty of life in prison. Colvard will be sentenced Jan.

District named to TV's Hall of Shame

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

TV2 anchorman Rich Fisher recently offered Wayne-Westland Schools an unwanted award - a desk at TV's Hall of Shame.

The schools were singled out for firing former Tinkham Alternative High School janitor Brad Stottlemeyer, 42, who anchorman Rich Fisher said deserved a "pat on the back" for standing up and "doing what's right."

Stottlemeyer's sin, according to Fisher, was "sticking up for a kid charged with ethnic intimidation."

Stottlemeyer had stuck up for Mario Wilder, a 16-year-old Tinkham student who had been accused of ethnically intimidating and threatening to harm a woman who worked for the district.

The charges stemmed from graffiti scrawled on a rest room wall. Somebody had written "Lynn is a hoe ass Jew bitch" and punctuated it with a swastika. The schools blamed Wilder.

However, Stottlemeyer had witnessed another kid defacing the wall and tried to tell school officials that Wilder was innocent. School officials wouldn't listen. When Stottlemeyer persisted, they fired him from a job he held for 22 years. The school board expelled Wilder. Eventually, Wilder was tried in juvenile court for ethnic intimidation, where the judge threw out the case. Evidence included a handwriting expert's report that said Wilder's handwriting didn't match the rest room graffiti. Another witness called MCN's Eyewitness reporter and said he saw another student write the graffiti.

After Wilder's courtroom victory, both he and Stottlemeyer requested to be reinstated. Despite evidence of attorney filed a grievance Wilder's innocence and the injustice apparently done to Stottlemeyer, the schools refused to accept either one back. "If they refuse to reinstate

Mario now that they have proof that he was innocent, we will sue," said Otis Wilder, Mario's Wilder since joined the Job Corps, where he said he's doing well but still suffers from the wrong.

"I feel it's unfair for (the instructor) to blame me for something I didn't do -- for something she knows I wouldn't do," he previously stated. "She knows that there are different races and religions in my family. She blamed me because she was upset."

Community's caring made 1996 headlines

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

The good news in the Belleville-area was the community's ability to unite together in a good cause: raising more than one half million dollars to aid 8-year-old Stephanie Smith, who has been suffering from a rare autoimmune disease since the age of two.

Her family has faith that a stem-cell transplant may save her precious young life, but the experimental procedure comes with a high price tag --Mayor Robert Thomas not covered by insurance.

Unfortunately, transplants aren't cheap. To give Stephanie a chance at life, it was necessary to raise a lot of money, which was done in a six-week period with numerous fund-raising events.

Thanks to the generosity, Stephanie will receive a transplant at St. Jude's Hospital, in Memphis, Tenn., in the near future. The procedure, which includes massive doses of chemotherapy and periods of total isolation, will take at least four months.

It will all be possible because the community cared enough to give.

During the last two years, Students will have two more voters have twice overwhelmingly defeated $50 million construction and technology bond issues and resoundingly elected two new school board members pledged not to support grand construction projects. The bond issue resurfaced when board member Martha However, credit must go to Toth suggested major renovadistrict curriculum planners tions of the schools designed to create schools that would last 30-40 years.

"We need a large infusion of cash to get that work done. It's inappropriate to build out of current money," she said, stating that renovations are needed because there are "things that need to be done at the high school that can't wait" and because the district is growing.

"We've already waited long enough for the population increase to show up - we are renting classrooms now. It's appropriate for a long-term solid capital investment," said

Statistics indicate that the dwindled by 2,000 students over 20 years, despite a population increase.

New board member Vesta Losen, who came to the meeting to discuss ways to save money, not spend it, questioned the wisdom of building new schools when Quirk School remains unused.

"We got rid of Quirk School for a lot of reasons," answered

Besides Toth, board President Karl Gorham, Trustee Dave Peer, and Superintendent James Richendollar variously indicated that a bond was desirable, fiscally responsible, and a common thing for area districts to do. Besides Losen, only new board member Tom Bowles preferred to fund renovations through savings, rebudgeting, and downscaling plans. To demonstrate the feasibility of their thrifty suggestion, Bowles prepared two budget proposals designed to divert $1.5 million to building maintenance during the 1998-1998

Romulus Mayor sees success, growth for 1997

By AL POST MCN Staff Writer

Romulus Mayor William Oakley is busy planning for success and growth in 1997, but the timing will be impacted by the joint works of the city and Wayne County.

The biggest event on the drawing board is the planned massive outlet mall planned in the Metro World Complex near the Detroit Metro Airport, Oakley said.

Romulus-long plagued by a lack of commercial outlets-is hoping that the planned mall will attract dollars currently spent at nearby stores such as Fairlane Mall in Dearborn as well as airport visitors.

The planned $50 million Tanger Corp. mall also is expected to contain modern movie theatres and a number of specialty eating establish-

Romulus city road improvements also will take a high priority, the mayor said, since many of the city's streets are listed in poor condition.

Equally important is the development of the Vining Road interchange that is expected to be one of the most heavily traveled in Wayne County, linking the airport with nearby roads and highways.

Also listed of prime importance to the city of Romulus is the relocation of its Department of Public Works building. The current DPW structure is located on Goddard Road in the way of the airport's planned fourth parallel runerty until we are ready to move in the new site," Oakley warned. He said he was not sure why the county is dragging its feet on this issue. They (county officials) are not opposing our efforts (new location, etc), but they just haven't said yes so we can go full speed ahead."

The county is suppose to pick up the cost of the new city DPW building (according to its existing size), Oakley said.

If Romulus wants a larger building, it will have to make up the difference, DPW Director David Paul revealed.

Oakley revealed late last year that the new DPW building was the city's top priority in the field of construction.

Long time Councilman Jimmie Raspberry also has been pushing for a new police headquarters, but Oakley said it will have to wait in line until the DPW building project is

As the new year begins, all indications are that it will be one of continued prosperity for Western Wayne County.

Following the general election in November and the unsuccessful recall campaign for Belleville Mayor Dennis Continued residential, industrial and commercial growth is expected.

Fassett, the political scene has cooled down.

In the near future, however, a new representative must be elected to serve Romulus and Taylor. Rep. Greg Pitoniak has announced his intention to seek the Taylor mayor's office following the resignation of Mayor Cameron Priebe who has taken a Wayne County

2 new buildings enhance Wayne

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

The good news in Wayne was the opening of two public buildings: a new library and an aquatic center.

The library is handsome building in the dead space created by urban renewal. It's a warm building -- with handsome wood trim and filled with natural light.

It increases shelf space to the point where a very good collection can be built. The old library is being recycled into a senior center, which will open this month.

The other opening was the $6 million Aquatic Center at Howe and Annapolis, which compares to Canton's Summit on the Hill, though the Wayne facility is smaller and less expensive.

It is located next to the city skating rink, giving it an added recreational dimension.

The center contains a 25meter pool, a long water slide that loops through an erupting volcano, a smaller slide, and water toys. Above the pool is an 1/11 mile walking and jogging track. Fitness machines are also on-site.

For changing there is a family locker room with private rooms for parents to bring children of either gender to help them shower and put on their Best of all, the center is extremely affordable, so almost anybody in the city has access.

The good news is that Wayne is beginning to build public spaces, perhaps the most positive trend in Western Wayne County.

Residents of Van Buren Township and the surrounding area can learn about the township's PCB landfill issue, the background and the issue's current status by tuning in to "People and Policy, A Common Sense Agenda," with State Senator Loren Bennett (R-Canton Township). The cable show is produced monthly, and January's guest is Mike Long, Director of Community Services for Van Buren Township. Long will cover basic background information regarding the PCB landfill and resultant odor problems. Bennett and Long will discuss the impact of community involvement and what took place at public hearings. In addition, the two will explain the involvement of the Environmental Protection Agency and Michigan's Department of Environmental Quality.

Said Bennett, "It is important to know what role each agency will play. We have all levels of the government -- federal, state and local - involved with this issue. It is important to the public health and to the environment. I hope this show serves as an informative and helpful update for concerned citizens."

Start of 1997 provides new opportunities

When the old year ends and a new one begins, it is a good time for evaluations, assessments and goal setting.

No other time seems as appropriate for making positive changes as when the new year begins.

At Michigan Community Newspapers we are re-dedicating ourselves to the goal of publishing the best community newspaper in the state. To that end, we will be making some changes in the design and content of our six community newspapers. The changes we make will be ones that will enhance the quality and readability of the community newspapers and expand our news coverage and feature reporting.

An evaluation of our editorial staff, for example, has prompted us to make some assignment changes to better utilize our employees and expand our coverage. Other departments from circulation to advertising are doing the same type of evaluation to determine how we can better serve our readers and advertisers.

Our pledge is to make our local newspapers more readable, interesting and entertaining, and any changes in our format will be made to fulfill that pledge.

We have outlined our goals for the new year: to support positive economic growth. to promote quality education, to work for safe communities, to encourage environmental responsibility, to support local cultural endeavors and to promote fairness in taxation, and we will endeavor to see that positive steps in these areas are taken by our local officials and our residents.

We plan to make 1997 a banner year for Michigan Community Newspaper for both ourselves and our readers.

es- Line designations Offices consolidated for better service

It took a lot of soul-searching on the part of the management and staff of Michigan Community Newspapers to make the decision to consolidate the offices of the Belleville Enterprise-Romulus Roman in downtown Belleville with the main office in Wayne.

Regretfully, as we close the doors to our office on Main Street, a long history of maintaining a downtown office in the city will come to an end.

However, our service to the city of Belleville and townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron will continue.

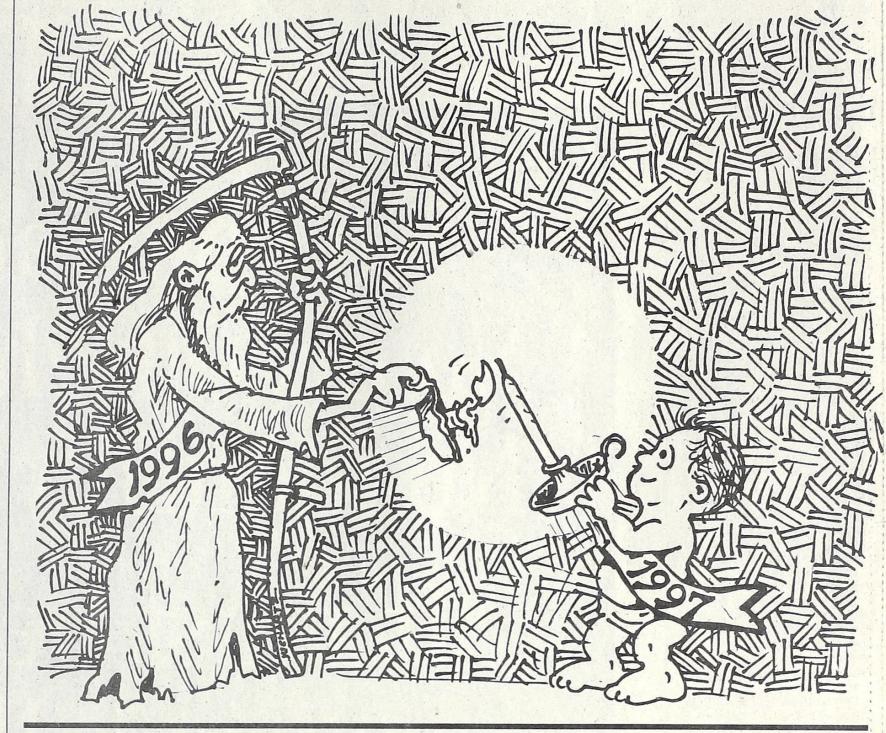

Rather than a reduction of services, we believe that we are increasing the services to our customers. Whereas calls to the Belleville office to obtain information on subscriptions, wedding and birth announcements, advertising account status and general information were routinely transferred to our Wayne office, callers may now reach us directly at 729-4000.

Instead of three people to serve the needs of our subscribers and advertisers, we now have the entire staff of Michigan Community Newspapers to serve those needs.

In March the Enterprise will observe its 111th year of publication, and we plan to keep the newspaper as lively and viable in 1997 as it was in 1886 when founded by A.E. Smith and Roscoe Begole.

Just as our newspaper has changed and improved since the product that Smith and Begole produced, our business office must change with the times and technology.

And, don't forget, we are still your home town newspaper whether you live in Belleville, Van Buren, Sumpter and Canton townships, Romulus, Wayne, Westland, and we are here to provide the best service possible to all the communities we serve.

Global problems

To the editor:

Supply and demand. In the grand scheme of economic historv it is all we really know - and all we need to know.

Still, as we scan the daily economic numbers for minute clues as to where the economy is heading tomorrow - we sometimes forget the fundamental importance of supply and demand in the grand scheme of

Take the important issue of the supply and demand for labor. Looked at from a very, very long historical perspective — the supply and demand for labor can be very enlightening. Consider this.

In the 1300's, the supply of labor fell sharply in Europe because of the 'Black Death." The result was a general inflation of workers' wages. Because of the Black Death, surviving workers were able to demand a higher price for their labor. And, the newly vacated lands of the plague victims provided plenty of fresh opportunities for these new entrepreneurs. The result: The Renaissance in Europe with its general prosperity for all.

The next period of labor disequilibrium occurred after the year 1500. The discovery of the "new world" by European explorers created yet another "labor shortage." As European populations poured into the new world colonies - labor shortages in Europe caused wage in-

Eventually, slaves from Africa had to be used to satisfy the demands for labor in the new world - and restore equilibrium to the European labor markets. The result? A general prosperity for all-between 1650 and 1750. And, the so-called Age of Enlightenment.

The next period of accelerated labor demand occurred after the industrial revolution - in the period beginning about 1850. As the demand for factory labor grew, wages rose-gradually at first — then at an accelerating pace. Whole populations moved from farm to factory. The result: the generalized prosperity of the 20th Century — and the consumerism economy that we know today.

But where next? What is going to happen to labor in the future? How will the next "labor shortage" develop. Can we afford to wait for another Black Death, New World, or Industrial Revolution? I think not.

Today, the global economy has made labor plentiful and cheap. As a result, wages are falling everywhere. Still, the capitalist "establishment" wants to fight "wage inflation" at all costs even if it means destroying the very foundations of the econating labor shortages. Nor can we expect to "pull the rabbit out of the hat" again with the discovery of a "new world" or another "industrial revolution."

If the big corporations want to use Asian and South American "slave labor" to stop wage inflation in the Western developed economies — they will destroy the markets for their products in the process. A catastrophic economic collapse is inevitable.

The use of the global economy to suppress wages is a dangerous thing — and the sooner it is stopped the better. You can not establish labor market equilibriums in a global economy. All you get is a "death spiral" for wages.

In the end, we will realize that all economies are "local." And, the global economy is really an unsustainable economic heresy. But, how much social unrest will we have to endure - before we see the unsustainability of the current situation?

School district earned our trust

By IVAN HELFMAN MCN Staff Writer

Ouch! Plymouth-Canton Schools are asking voters for a lot money -- 86 million smackers. So my first instinct is to duck.

But my second instinct is to hear them out and let them explain their rationale for this costly plan and its wackier elements, such as a building a high school without a swimming pool, football field, or gymnasium. Don't they know that America is about sports?

Whatever negative thoughts their proposal emits to my mind, I will initially repress them because the district has earned the right to get the benefit of the doubt.

They earned it fair and square: by leading the pack in academic performance.

While other schools hustle out to their spin doctors to alibi away lousy student performances, Plymouth-Canton is the best district in Western Wayne County as measured by the High School Proficiency Test, which a state school board member has convinced me is as accurate a barometer as we're likely to get in this

Ivan Helfman

As far as I'm concerned, if the district can adopt this plan and maintain or better their performance, I will support it. I just want them to explain to me three things: One, how they will maintain their performance.

Two, how will they pay for the schools' operation. After all, the administration is always pleading poverty. If they're so broke, how will they

Of course, they'll answer that growing student enrollment will pay the bills, forgetting that in the past they've complained that their revenue is insufficient to support their current two high schools.

To get my support, all I ask is that they answer this question honestly.

Third, I want to know if they'll do anything to persuade Canton to improve its quality of life by developing more vote "No."

parks and public places and requiring higher quality commercial development.

While I don't hold the district responsible for Canton's neglect, I fear what will happen when Canton's fifteen minutes in the spotlight ends and property values drop to suburban sprawl levels. Unless Canton developes a character and a personality, families will abandon it as fast as they've abandoned previous sprawlfilled hot spots, such as Westland or Farmington Hills.

Without families, the district's public school population will dwindle and the district will soon go through the school closing phase of the cycle.

Though I'm inclined to support the district, I doubt whether the plan will gain enough support to pass. That's because it's so unconventional. My fellow Canton taxpayers will have to take it on trust.

To get the trust, the district will have to do a better job of explaining it. They seem to have got off to a bad start.

However, for people like me who want to reward the district's past competence, it's going to be almost impossible

Zones will help communities

By DOUG ROTHWELL MCN Special Writer

Beginning in January, Michigan will have up to 11 areas in the state that will be tax free to both businesses and residents. It has been exciting to see communities from throughout the state respond so enthusiastically to the possibility of creating these tax-free Renaissance Zones. Rural and urban areas from all parts of the state are vying for a zone designa-

Twenty applicants are under review. Many of them tell how the Renaissance Zone application process, itself, has stimulated new levels of cooperation and inventive thinking on how to solve problems that have plagued these communities for years. It's possible that almost all the areas, whether they get zones or not, will be better equipped to tackle these problems, simply because they've taken a new look at their situations.

There are 10 rural applications, eight urban applications, and two applications from former military installations. The enabling legislation allows nine zones, with up to four in rural areas, and up to six in urban areas, plus an indefinite number within military installations closed after

In July, Governor John Engler signed the legislation establishing these tax-free Renaissance Zones. The only program of its kind in the nation, the zones are designed to create growth in economically distressed areas throughout the state.

More legislation must be passed to implement the zones, but these bills are expected to be completed in the legislature's fall session. Recommendations will come from a team known as the Renaissance Zone Review Board, made up of several department directors, including myself. After review of all applications, the State Administrative Board, which includes the Governor, made zone designations.

Detroit lowers the boom on Glenn, Wayne

Rockets missing 'a spark'

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn ran into a formidable opponent in Detroit Denby at the third annual Superintendent's Classic and dropped their third basketball decision in four starts. 93-51, during the 1996 phase of the season.

It was also Glenn's first loss at the holiday classic. For coach Mike Schuette and the Rockets, who are 2-1 against Detroit Public School League. it was also their worst setback of the current campaign.

The Superintendent's Classic is hosted by Dr. David Snead, superintendent of Detroit Public Schools which, with 110,000 students, is the largest school district in the state of Michigan.

Glenn had dominated the first two games of the series thanks, in part, to the presence of 6-11 Guy Rucker in its lineup. Rucker is presently a "redshirted freshman" at Iowa's University where he has broken into the starting

It wasn't the best of ways to end the year, but it also wasn't the worst.

For coach Chuck Henry and

Wayne Memorial returning from Coho Hall last Thursday after losing to a highly-touted Detroit Pershing by six points was "disappointing but not earth-shattering."

We know we have to improve," said Henry after the 67-61 loss in the Third Annual Superintendent's Classic. "But we also know we can play with anyone in the state.

"We gave up a lot in size and muscle and we managed to hold our own."

A disastrous first period put Wayne in a hole early, and it took all they had to climb out. Trailing 17-9 after the first eight minutes, Wayne outscored the Doughboys 19-15 during the next eight minutes and cut the Detroit powerhouse's lead to four (32-28) at the half. Then, with Rodney Hurst scoring eight points and Lorenzo Guess coming up with seven, Wayne took a 48-46 lead over the undefeated PLS defending champs.

Inkster, new coach off to a 'nightmarish' start

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

Inkster rookie basketball coach Ocie Carswell may have known the Vikings were in a rebuilding cycle when he accepted the responsibility of fielding the team this year.

But, what the former Inkster High tennis ace probably didn't know was just how much rebuilding was needed to make the Vikings a win-

In their first six starts, the atypical Inkster hoop squad is yet to find its way into the win

In fact, in their last two starts, the Vikings have scored less than 40 points in each of the two games. Their last two appearances were at the Motor City Holiday Classic staged at River Rouge High School.

"We have problems," said Carswell, which has to be the understatement of this young season. "Our kids are playing selfishly. They are not giving up the ball when they need to, taking needless shots. We have to change things around or this is going to be a very long season."

Isn't it already? The mysterious malady - and it apparently wasn't the flu bug - struck the Vikings last week as they prepared to compete in the MCI classic. Inkster was slaughtered by a so-so Detroit Redford 63-37. Then, in the second round of the Classic, Carswell's club was clubbed by the an-

The Vikings were supposed to be back on the hardwood noon Monday when they were scheduled to play their third tournament game against the winner of the Detroit Central and Flint Beecher game. (Because of early holiday deadlines this week, the results will appear in our next edition).

Carswell had size and experience on the floor against Redford. The starting lineup included Greg Watkins (6-4), Ken Overman (5-11), Phil Baldwin (5-11), Darrell Mason (6-5) and Joe Allison (6-0), but the Vikings played as if they were suffering from the post-holiday blah syn-

Canton duo Tartar hoop stars

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

They're first-cousins, and the Andersons -Britta and Erica - can also relate to shooting hoops.

Both are standouts, who starred for Plymouth-Canton in the past, presently in the lineup at WSU and are future Tartar starlets, according to the Tartars' head coach Diane Wisnewski, who is returning for her fifth year after an outstanding 1995-96 campaign.

A year ago, Wisnewski's squad put together the best season under her direction. The Tartars finished with an enviable 20-8 overall record, and its 20 victories were second only to the 1981 season team record of 23.

WSU's 1996-97 hoopsters are shooting to top that mark thanks to a corps of solid veterans and talented newcomers.

The Andersons will play a key role in the success of the Tartars this season.

A 1994 graduate of Canton High, Britta Anderson has been designated as the Tartars' captain for the upcoming season. The 5-8 sophomore, who is primarily a guard but can be utilized as a forward, returns to the lineup after missing last season with a knee injury.

Wisnewski labels Britta as the team's "most intense player."

Britta saw action in 28 games for the Tartars in the 1994 campaign and scored a career-high 10 points and had four rebounds in a winning effort over Michigan-Dearborn. An excellent four-year guard for Canton coach Bob Blohm, she captained the Chiefs in her senior year and WSU's 1996-97 hoopsters are shooting to top that mark thanks to a corps of solid veterans and talented newcomers.

Britta also was named to the Class A All-State team after earning all- Western Lakes Conference and also was picked by the Michigan Community Newspapers' Sports Staff for All-Area honors.

Not only a hoop standout as a prep, Britta Anderson also was a star in soccer at Canton where she led her 1993 and 1994 teams into the state finals. She is an Athlete-Scholar.

Born in Detroit on March 31, 1976, Britta is the daughter of Richard and Janet Anderson. Erica Anderson stands 5-9 and is a junior who is also a 1994 graduate of Plymouth-Canton High School where she was the co-captain of her team. She will play both forward spots this year. She is tough under the boards and transferred to WSU after playing two years for Henry Ford Community College, where she averaged 13 points per outing and 10 rebounds.

Erica was selected to the All-Region squad and also had made the Dean's List at HFCC both years she attended the community college.

As a prep, Erica led the Chiefs in rebounding as a senior and was named to almost every "area" honor team.

Born in Dearborn March 9, 1976, Erica is the daughter of Larry and Linda Anderson.

For Wayne heavyweight, winning wouldn't do it

By TOM MOORADIAN MCN Staff Writer

It was only their second meet in their new division of the Mega Conference, and coach Dave Davis and Wayne Memorial were trailing Wyandotte by six-points as the match entered its final bout.

Wayne heavyweight William Laramie knew that winning was not going to do it for the team. In fact, even a major victory, such as trouncing his opponent by 15 or more points, would only give his team five points, one shy of tying the team score.

Our kid went in there and performed with a lot of heart.

- Ceach Dave Davis

Laramie needed, he realized, to pin Wyandotte's Mike Rusatz if the "Wolfpack" was to save face - a task that would not be easy since Rusatz also realized his mission on the mats was to stay off his back.

"Our kid (Laramie) went in there and performed with a lot of heart," said Davis, after the event. "He never quit and got the job done.'

Laramie pinned Rusatz in 5:50 to salvage the six-points which enabled Wayne to tie Wyandotte 36-all in a double dual meet before the hometown crowd.

Wayne posted a relatively easy, 54-17, victory over Woodhaven in the other match up. Woodhaven was the team that Wayne replaced in the White Division this year.

The victory - and tie - gave Wayne a 3-0-1 overall record for the 1996 phase of the 1996-1997 season.

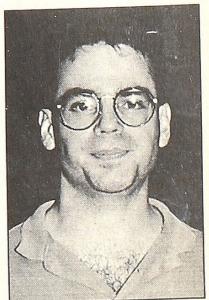

Wayne will now pack up its gear and head downriver on Saturday to compete in the 18team Lincoln Park Invitational.

"I am impressed with our overall team performance and this squad's work ethics," said Davis, a former All-Area grappler who is a Wayne High alumnus. "Our kids work hard. Their efforts show on the mats. Obviously, there is a lot more work waiting for this team."

Wayne got off to a shaky start against the Bruins, who had the victory swiped from their hands. In the heavier weights it seesawed until Laramie settled the issue.

The "Wolfpack" got victories from John Nichols, who earned a 18-1 decision over his 119-pound opponent, Derek Tester; Jamal Booze turned back Wyandotte's Steve Du-boy rally that opened the way for Pershing's fourth-straight victory that preserved their four-game win streak.

"I was not happy with the way we started this game," stressed Henry. "We were in a hurry to go for the three, didn't work the way we are accustomed to, and that definitely hurt us."

In fact, Wayne attempted seven from three-point range in the first eight minutes and sank only two. In contrast, the Zebras went for the percentage baskets in the second quarter, attempting 14 at twopoint range.

Wayne also committed 22 turnovers, which isn't typical of a Henry- coached team.

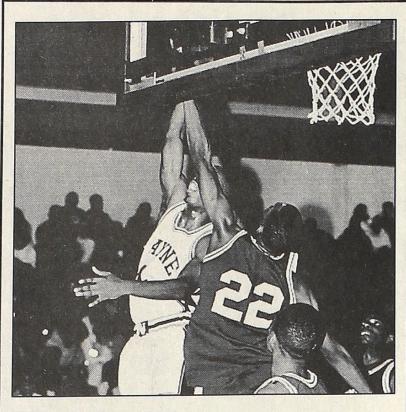

"When you make that many mistakes, especially against a team like Pershing, you have to be prepared to pay," Henry

Guess came away with a game-high 23 points. The senior captain also carded four steals, six assists and nine rebounds. Teammate Richard Rashad chipped in with 10 points and eight rebounds for the Zebras who brought the curtains down on 1996 with a 4-2 record

Earlier in the week, Wayne handed Birmingham Brother Rice one of its worst basketball shellackings in recent memory. With Rashad tossing in a season high 22 points and Lorenzo accounting for 17, the Zebras trampled Rice, 73-47, for their fourth victory

Hurst, who scored 13, and Lavelle Guess, with 12, also hit in double figures.

Wayne continues on its quest for a third consecutive Mega Conference Red Division championship on Jan. 10 when they travel to Fordson.

Wayne also received a stellar performance from 140pounder, Keith Britt, who disposed of Landon Green in 5:20. Also, Wayne carded three points when gridder-turnedgrappler Pat Grzecki eked out a 3-1 victory over Dan Martin, Scott's older brother, in the 189-pound class.

Jeff Carpenter also defeated Jason Sienko, Wayne's 130-pound wrestler, 17-5, and Wyandotte's Dan Hasting picked up a close 5-2 victory over Jeff Proudlock.

Michael Garland, the winningest basketball coach in recent Belleville High history, may have departed for greener pastures to East Lansing, but the Tiger winning tradition remains as Belleville rolled past Dearborn in the opening game of the Mega Conference Red Division campaign.

Garland accepted an assistant coaching position with Michigan State University after leading the Tigers to two conference championships.

Rod Fisher, Garland's assis-

Bond's Aston Martin DB5 to visit Ford Museum

James Bond's Aston Martin DB5, the gadget-loaded spy car that starred in 1964's film phenomenon Goldfinger, will be on display at Henry Ford Museum January 11 through March 9, 1997.

Sometimes described as the car that made James Bond famous, the DB5 appeared in Goldfinger for only 13 minutes (ending with Bond wrecking the car) but still captured the imagination of audiences worldwide. It proved so popular that it was resurrected for the next Bond film, 1965's Thunderball.

This particular DB5 -- the DP/216/1 -- is far more than mere transportation. It is equipped with both offensive and defensive weaponry to assist its driver, James Bond - Agent 007 -- whose business was spying on behalf of "Her Majesty's Secret Service." The car is a film representation of author Ian Fleming's original philosophy about 007: "Bond may go wildly beyond the probable, but not beyond the possible."

"On film, the car was an extension of Bond himself," said Donna Braden, a museum curator and one of the planners of the DB5 exhibit. "The cleverness of the car's accessories parallels Bond's clever, quick wit and amazing, unorthodox ways of achieving goals."

Braden points out that the high-tech nature of the DB5 was extraordinary for its time, and is even amazing today. The current DB5 is a restored version, with all the "bells and whistles" of the original car in place but not necessarily in working order.

"The gadgets included on the DB5 were a sign of the times," Braden said. "In the early '60s, the power of technology seemed unlimited— Americans believed that technology would ultimately make everything better. That thought is taken to the edge in this car."

The DB5 will be located near the front of the eight-acre exhibit hall of Henry Ford Museum. Also included in the exhibit will be a variety of artifacts related to the car, including an original Goldfinger promotional poster and a circa 1964 James Bond board game. Visitors can also peruse the car's labels for answers to a Goldfinger trivia quiz.

Metroparks provide winter fun for all

Among the most popular winter playgrounds in Southeast Michigan are the 13 Huron-Clinton Metroparks serving the citizens of the counties of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw.

Interpretive facilities are open daily, except the Marshlands Museum. Other facilities are open as winter weather permits.

Because ice and snow conditions vary from day to day, people are advised to contact the Metropark of their choice before traveling to the park. The parks, facilities and phone numbers are listed below.

LOWER HURON METRO-PARK near Belleville has areas for cross-country skiing (no groomed trails) and two nature trails for walking (Sycamore Bend and Bob White) and over 4 miles of hike-bike trails.

The park entrance is on Haggerty Road via the Haggerty Road interchange along the Interstate-94 Freeway between Detroit Metropolitan Airport and Belleville exit. Park hours are dawn to dusk. For snow conditions phone 1-300-477-3182 or (313) 697-9181 (Belleville). A vehicle entry permit is required.

WILLOW METROPARK between New Boston and Flat Rock has sledding on moderate slopes, groomed cross country ski trails, ski rental service and ice skating.

Sledding is available at Washago Pond and at the Chestnut Picnic Area. Both feature a special hill for winter use. Nearby are heated restrooms: Sledding hours are 10 a.m. to dusk.

Cross-Country ski rental service is available at the Ski Touring Center, Saturday and Sunday, at the Washago Pond Area, with complete rental equipment, food service and heated restrooms. Skating is also available at Washago Pond, dawn to dusk.

Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. For snow conditions, contact the Park Office - c/o Lower H u r o n Metropark - 1-800-477-3182 or (313) 697-9181 (Belleville). A vehicle entry permit is required.

OAKWOODS METROPARK located near Flat Rock is primarily a nature oriented site with a Nature Center, nature trails, winter bird feeding stations and nature programs, plus marked trails for crosscountry skiing. Park hours are dawn to dusk. For snow conditions contact the park office (c/ o Lower Huron Metropark) 1-300-477-3182 or (313) 697- 9181 (Belleville) or 313-789-3956 (Oakwoods Nature Center). numbers. A vehicle entry permit is required.

LAKE ERIE METROPARK in Brownstown Township near Gibraltar and Rockwood features cross-country skiing, ski equipment rentals, groomed trails, food service and ice skating.

There are three groomed cross-country ski trails, which vary in length from 1 mile to 4.25 miles and covering relatively flat and wooded terrain. Equipment rentals are available at the Ski Touring Center (Food Service Building) daily. Ski rental and food service hours are noon to 6 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekends and holidays. A Friday night ski program will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., weather permitting. Park hours are 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Plymouth Symphony receives grant from Target

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra has added one more corporate sponsor to its list of major supporters. The Livonia, Haggerty Road store has donated $4,000 to sponsor the Pops Concert, "Caribbean Cruise," to be held April 25 at Fox Hills Country Club.

"It's exciting to work with Target. This is the second year that Target has sponsored one of our concerts; they are very generous," said Dave Burnisky, Plymouth Symphony Board president. "The Livonia, Haggerty Road store has been a very supportive member of our community and has demonstrated its commitment to being a good neighbor."

Target has a long-standing commitment to give 5 percent of the company's annual taxable profits to community organizations for programs focused on strengthening and enriching family life. In 1994, Target gave more than $8.8 million to more than 2,000 nonprofit organizations nation-

"With this grant, we want to recognize and support the important work of the Plymouth Symphony," said Gail Dorn, Target director of communications and community relations. "As a family store, our goal is to provide both financial and volunteer support to community programs that help strengthen families. The Plymouth Symphony is working to achieve this goal," Dorn ad-

Betty Crocker column becomes regular feature

One of America's most well known names in cooking will be featured in Michigan Community Newspapers in a weekly column, beginning today.

Betty Crocker's recipes and cooking hints have been used by homemakers for dozens of years, and now she is sharing her expertise with readers in weekly columns covering a variety of subjects.

Although she became famous as a symbol for General Mills, Betty Crocker has taken on a life of her own and has taken her place among the leading cooks and bakers in the country.

Each week, her address will appear at the end of her column so that readers may contract her directly.

Attention all you unbaked

dough dippers and bowl lickers

(and you know who you are).

Eating uncooked whole eggs, whites or yolks is simply not worth the risk of food poisoning. If you really fancy raw dough, use pasteurized egg products, such as those found in the dairy case or freezer

section of the supermarket, or reconstituted dried eggs. In some areas, you may be able to find pasteurized eggs in the shell. Your best bet use any eggs you want, but wait for the cookies to bake and enjoy them

Herb Blurb: Did you know that you can boost the flavor from dried herbs by crushing them between your fingers? Crushing the herbs releases their aromatic oils. This is especially helpful if you use salt lightly but still seek an intense flavor. Use dried or ground herbs within six months and dried whole herbs within one year for maximum flavor. Remember to label with the date of purchase when you first put them in the cupboard. And those jumbo-size containers? These may not be such a great buy if warm from the oven instead!

Betty

I love the holidays, and the food I enjoyed is still with me in the form of several extra pounds on my hips. Help:

Okay, a show of hands; who doesn't have the same problem every January? The best way to lighter meals is better planning: Think through the entire day's meals every morning, so you can avoid impulse eating. which is food often high in fat. Here are the ABC's-and D and E, for that matter-of lighter cooking: (a) think broiled, baked, roasted, poached, steamed or grilled; (b) if you can't ignore a skillet or sauté pan, make sure it's of the nonstick variety, and use a cooking spray; (c) choose low-fat or fat-free dairy foods across the boardmilk, cheese, sour cream, cottage cheese, yogurt; (d) opt for carbs-complex carbohydrates such as pasta, cereal, rice, and veggies, but watch what you top them with: and (e) if you do prepare meat, choose leaner cuts, and trim away the fat. Keep in touch, and let me know how you're doing.

When my children and I bake cookies, only some of the dough uctually makes it into the oven. Given our passion for unbaked cookie dough, is it safe to eat
